Widely Acclaimed Project Management Knowledge Software from International Institute for Learning, Inc. (IIL) Reaches New Heights

Unified Project Management[®] Methodology (UPMM[™]) Version 3.0 Adds Graphics Customization Capabilities

New York, NY, March 3, 2008 – International Institute for Learning, Inc. (IIL), the first to release a revolutionary, customizable project management methodology and knowledge management solution, has now upgraded the software adding powerful enhancements to meet the needs of the growing project marketplace. UPMM[™] Version 3.0 proudly introduces its newest feature, the Diagram Editor – an add-on tool that increases the software’s customization capabilities by allowing clients to edit not only the content but also the process diagrams. This new feature enables companies to truly customize every aspect of their methodology. Version 3.0 also presents improved best practice management, project management (PM) community of practice, and portal capabilities, and showcases an interactive and process-based version of the Project Management Institute’s PMBOK[®] Guide – Third Edition.

UPMM[™] is a project management knowledge solution that can be used by all organizations as:

- a tool to develop, customize, maintain, and deliver methodologies and process knowledge dynamically;
- a complete and mature PM methodology with hundreds of templates that are PMBOK[®] Guide –Third Edition - aligned;
- a growing knowledge base covering every aspect of project management, representing the collective knowledge of IIL’s world-wide subject matter experts with thought leaders such as Dr. Harold Kerzner and George Pitagorsky; and
- a project knowledge portal to manage best practices and project archives, and to build a community of practice.

Revenue gains, a sharper competitive edge, and greater profit margins increasingly depend on bringing projects to completion on time, within budget, and to the highest standard of quality. “UPMM[™]’s Version 3.0 makes the consistent success of projects more achievable than ever,” stated IIL’s President and CEO, E. LaVerne Johnson. “Our clients require solutions that provide effective standards, with the flexibility and scalability to adapt to every type of project. Because each organization is unique with its own set of challenges, we are compelled to provide a solution that allows clients to effectively define the way they perform their projects.”

Since its inception in 2001, UPMM™ has been verified and tested by numerous teams of project managers. It is a one-stop-shop for project knowledge, with all the content and processes needed to approach projects of all types and sizes in a methodical and meaningful way. UPMM™ includes PM processes, templates, guidelines, examples, best practices, terminology, dedicated support, and the means for clients to create their own PM community of practice. UPMM™'s administrative function, including the new Diagram Editor, enables complete customization and management of the knowledge base and methodology.

As an incentive to deploy UPMM™, IIL is offering interested companies, for a limited time, two days of free consulting with every UPMM™ enterprise-license purchase. (An enterprise license allows unlimited use of UPMM™ within an organization.) As part of this program, companies are invited to brainstorm with an IIL PM expert who will help determine how best to roll out UPMM™ at your company, and assist you on how to use this tool as a knowledge management and methodology solution.

To view a flash demo of UPMM™ Version 3.0 or to schedule an online demonstration of the system, please visit www.iil.com/pm/upmm or contact Christian Damiba, PMP, Director of On-Demand Products and Programs, at +1.212.515.5150 or 1.800.325.1533, or email IIL at upmm@iil.com.
